

Health Services Researcher (mid-/senior-levels)

L&M Policy Research, LLC is seeking an experienced, kind and motivated health services researcher to join our highly collaborative and supportive team. We are especially interested in having a new colleague with deep knowledge of U.S. health care policy, and particular expertise in the Medicare program and evaluation of payment and delivery system reforms. Individuals with temporary visas or who need sponsorship for work authorization now or in the future are unfortunately not eligible for hire.

Responsibilities:

- Contribute technical expertise to multiple projects, including developing research and evaluation approaches; using secondary data sources to conduct quantitative analyses, including identifying and accessing appropriate data sources, conducting qualitative data collection; qualitative research design and implementation
- Prepare well-organized and clearly written reports and presentations describing research findings in multiple formats and for technical and lay audiences
- Provide subject matter expertise in multiple areas including: Medicare payment policy and coverage, health equity, state Medicaid policy, quality measurement
- Serve as task lead for large quantitative or mixed-methods projects and to lead smaller projects, with responsibility for project management activities, including monitoring contract timelines, reporting, and communicating with clients as appropriate
- Lead and/or contribute to proposal efforts in response to government and private solicitations
- Work collaboratively with staff at all levels to execute projects

Qualifications:

- Advanced degree in economics or health services research preferred, with at least 5 years of relevant health services research experience
- Experience analyzing Medicare claims or other health care claims
- Understanding of health care financing and delivery systems
- Proficiency with statistical software (e.g., SAS, STATA or R) a bonus
- Intimate knowledge of descriptive and inferential statistics
- Exemplary organizational, verbal and written communication skills
- Ability to plan, organize and prioritize staff working with multiple projects
- Must be a thoughtful leader with excellent mentoring skills

Please submit a resume, writing sample, AND cover letter to:

Careers@LMpolicyresearch.com

About L&M

L&M is a highly-collegial, boutique-sized, health services research firm that offers a deep knowledge of public and private health care issues grounded in extensive experience in qualitative and quantitative research methods and health services management and operations.